11. The poem "Justice" by Praveen Kumar shows the poet's worry about justice today. Justice becomes a trade when exchanged for anything. Yet it survives despite difficulties. It is cool like ice and still like rock. It is tied to greed and bribe. Like a rat in a death sack and a deer in a lion's den, justice is helpless. Where there is no truth, justice is dead. It comes alive only when man gives up greed and selfishness.
